

Ad-Vance Engineering Triumphs at LCCC Business Awards

Injection tool mould manufacturer, Ad-Vance Engineering, has been recognised for its success and innovative approach to business by Lisburn & Castlereagh City Council (LCCC).

The progressive company was presented with two major accolades at the Council's high-profile Business Awards on Friday night. In addition to winning the Innovation Award, Ad-Vance Engineering was announced Runner-Up in the Manufacturing Excellence category at the celebratory gala event.

Shining a light on the local economy's business sector, the Council-run Awards recognise the region's most creative, diverse and top performing companies across 15 different categories.

Ad-Vance Engineering's success follows its previous achievements in 2016 when it was Runner-up in the Innovation category.

Roger Vance, MD of Ad-Vance Engineering said:

"We're thrilled with our success which officially recognises the innovative work, agility, resilience and dedication of our entire team. This is a tremendous accolade for the company and is also great news for our many customers across GB and Ireland."
