

BUMPER BENEFITS ON OFFER IN NEW HEXAGON PROMOTION

Free access to a selection of online training courses is just one of the new benefits available to holders of Hexagon Manufacturing Intelligence's PC-DMIS software maintenance agreements.

Customers are now being offered the opportunity to study either metrology fundamentals or take a CMM operator course via Hexagon's e-learning portal.

The leading measurement solutions provider is also giving away free membership to the metrology network at its Silverstone Park sub-contract facility with the added bonus of preferential contract inspection rates for SMA customers.

Other new incentives include a special discount off Hexagon's extensive range of classroom training courses, a six-month free trial of Q-DAS software and free delivery on orders of spares and accessories over £100.

Hexagon's improved SMA programme builds on existing features such as service pack and warranty updates, online and telephone technical support, webinars and annual training events.

Lapsed SMA holders can take advantage of a special amnesty in which no back charges will be applied as long as they take out a new, three-year contract by December 31.
