The Challenge

GTMA member companies share a unique set of challenges in the global market place.

Strict EU compliance, precision, quality, time-to-market and stringent cost control are just some of the difficulties that make partnering with a technical translation expert vital to your success.

The Solution

OMNIA has access to an impressive network of linguists and translators with extensive medical and scientific expertise. We adopt a centralized project management methodology to coordinate the simultaneous delivery of multiple language versions of documentation.

The OMNIA solution is cost effective and time efficient. This is achieved by:

- A dedicated production team underpinned by a robust project management methodology
- Effective resource management, allocation and recruitment
- Leverage of web-based language asset management tools such as query and terminology management and translation memory.

OMNIA delivers consistently high quality localized content to meet the most exacting criteria.

Translation Process

OMNIA's translation process for technical documentation is based on the following best practices:

- Meet with our clients to evaluate and understand the customer product and project to be translated.
- Allocated Project Manager who will guide you through the project process from the quotation to the delivery of your project.
- Using OMNIA in-country Vendor Managers to find the perfect translator, based upon language combination and industrial experience.
- Managing in-country translator and in-country reviewer communications.
- OMNIA will return your project in the agreed format, on-time and within budget.
