

PSL DATATRACK ANNOUNCES RELOCATION TO SUPPORT FUTURE GROWTH

PSL Datatrack is pleased to announce its relocation to new headquarters in Bracknell, marking the next chapter in the company's continued growth as a specialist provider of production control software for subcontract precision engineers.

After 16 successful years at Lily Hill House, PSL Datatrack has moved to Access Business Centre, Willoughby Road, Bracknell, RG12 8FB. The move to larger, more modern premises provides additional space to support future expansion while enhancing the working environment for employees and ensuring the company remains well positioned to meet the evolving needs of its customers.

The new office features two dedicated office spaces, allowing the business to continue bringing its sales, support and software development teams together under one roof while providing greater capacity for future growth.

Customers can be assured that the relocation will not affect the high levels of service they have come to expect. All existing telephone numbers, email addresses, website details and working hours remain unchanged.

The move will also enable employees to benefit from the Bracknell in Development (BID) scheme, providing access to a range of local discounts, wellbeing initiatives and professional development opportunities.

-more-

Geoff Gartland, Managing Director of PSL Datatrack, comments: "Lily Hill House has been an excellent home for PSL Datatrack over the past 16 years and has supported us through an important period of the company's development. As we continue to grow, however, it is the right time to relocate to premises that give us greater flexibility for the future."

"Our new offices at Access Business Centre provide the additional space and modern facilities we need to support our team and our customers for many years to come. This move reflects our ongoing commitment to investing in the business, our people and the high levels of service our customers expect from PSL Datatrack," concludes Geoff.

From its new Bracknell headquarters, PSL Datatrack looks forward to continuing to support its customers and the wider precision engineering industry for many years to come.